A GREEN TRANSFORMATION IS UNDERWAY TO PRESERVE OUR JEWEL OF INTERNATIONAL TOURISM:

This eco-friendly revolution has prompted major investments (€450 million/annum) to preserve the region's stunning environment and avoid the over-tourism phenomenon already experienced by some of our competitors. These investments are dedicated to preserving the authenticity of the landscapes and experiences on offer, guaranteeing a warm welcome by local inhabitants and protecting the specificity of our shops and craftspeople against globalization and standardization, in keeping with our values.

► Reduce the carbon footprint of tourism:

- In 2023, all ferries and in 2025 all cruise ships in the ports of Marseille, Toulon and Nice will be connected to the power grid.
- In the last 2 years, 50 million euros have been dedicated to installing ski resort equipment with a low environmental impact (snowmakers using 40% less energy, river pumping systems eliminated, development of clean, locally-produced electricity sources, etc.).
- 1 million trees to be planted in 2020.

► Manage the impact of tourism:

- Encourage tourism outside peak periods to create a more balanced and less impactful tourism trade.
  - Improve the distribution of tourist flows throughout the territory via the world's first experiment using Waze.
  - Develop tourism products that are available all year round (ecotourism, wine tourism, cycling, etc.).
  - Focus on visitors that drive the local economy and spur the creation of non-relocatable jobs.

For your travel pleasure,
Welcome to Provence-Alpes-Côte d'Azur,
A pioneering world travel destination for over a century, still breaking the waves...

SANCTUARY OF NOTRE DAME DE LA MER

The sanctuary of Notre Dame de la Mer is a major site for pilgrimages in May, October and December. The pilgrims arrive here in large numbers all year round. They come to a sanctuary filled with two thousand years of prayer, welcomed by Our Lady of the Sea and by the holy women... During the persecution of Christians in 45 A.D., Mary, the wife of Clopas, and Mary Salome fled Palestine and arrived here, on the shores of Camargue, together with Mary Magdalene, Martha, Lazarus, Maximinus and other disciples. They spent the rest of their lives here. The holy women were the first messengers of the Good News of the Resurrection. They were personal witnesses to the Easter event and to Christ's words, which they meditated and passed on to others. Here, in Camargue, they lit the flame of the Christian faith before it spread all over

Gaul and beyond.  TO CAVAILLON SYNAGOGUE

The Romanesque Sénanque Abbey was founded in 1148 by Cistercian monks. This truly emblematic monument of Provence is still the home of a small community of monks and welcomes visitors all the year round. In 1307, King Philip the Fair expelled the Jews from France, in the late 15th century, King Charles VIII expelled them from Provence; only the Comtat Venaissin, part of the Papal States, was still open to them. Tolerance was quite relative, however! Many traces of this fascinating history still exist today, including the synagogue of Cavaillon, now a museum. A visit to the Cavaillon synagogue, a major historical landmark of the Papal Jews and a masterpiece of 18th century Comtat Venaissin art, is one of the town's most fascinating experiences. It was rebuilt in the 18th century to replace the medieval synagogue, threatened with collapse, and always surprises visitors with the blend of details from Jewish and Provençal culture. This is the oldest active synagogue in France. Parts of it date from the 14th century, and it celebrated its 650th anniversary in 2017. It bears witness to Judeo-Provençal civilisation. The place of worship itself is in 18th century Baroque style, while the ground floor contains older elements such as ritual baths, 2 bakeries and a room dedicated to Jerusalem.
